THE COLLEGIATE YEAR extends through eight months, and is divided into a Preliminary Term, beginning March 1st, and a Regular Term, beginning June 1st. During these terms all the branches of medicine and surgery are taught didactically and clinically. Regular clinics are held three days in the week at the City and County Hospital, Potter Avenue (450 beds), where the Professors of the practical chairs have charge of wards and possess every advantage for the instruction of students. There is also an active clinic conducted three times a week at the College building, where a large number of patients are examined and treated before the classes. Didactic lectures are given daily by the Professors, and evening recitations are held three times a week.

The dissecting room is open throughout the entire year. Material is abundant, and costs but little.

It will thus be seen that the course of instruction, which extends through eight months of the year, aims at the development of practical physicians and surgeons. The great advantages possessed by the Medical Department of a State University, enable the Regents and Faculty to commend it in an especial manner to those seeking a complete and systematic knowledge of the medical profession. The facilities for bedside study have been largely increased of late, and the student will find opportunities at his command which, for comprehensiveness, are nowhere surpassed.

THREE YEARS' COURSE.

In response to the general demand, both in and out the profession, for a higher degree of proficiency in medical education, the Medical Department of the State University was one of the first in the United States to adopt the three years' term of study. No student can present himself for final examination until he has attended fully three regular courses of lectures and clinics. While this requirement entails no extra expense by the matter of fees, it is a still further guarantee that none shall bear the diploma of the State Medical School but those thoroughly qualified.

PREFACE.

OUR last Pacific Coast Directory was issued about two years ago, and although we made a strenuous effort to publish as complete and reliable a book as possible, we realized that the field was too large for one book. The population of the territory covered has more than doubled since our first book was published, and it is now impracticable to continue the publication except at a heavy loss. We herewith present to our patrons a substitute covering a portion of the territory, intending as soon as possible to cover the balance of the Coast.

The patronage we have received we consider an evidence that the plan is acceptable to our friends and subscribers—and they are the people whom we are most desirous of pleasing.

Since the publication of our last Coast book, we have encountered competition from several sources, but the field is large and constantly growing with the increase of population, and an honorable competition in our business is not objectionable.

We shall endeavor always to do satisfactory work, and are confident of receiving in the future, as in the past, a satisfactory patronage.

A HOME and DAY SCHOOL.

The Sixteenth year of Miss Tracy's School work in Oakland, will begin on WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1888. Regular and Special Courses. Studies can be selected according to individual wants and aims. Lessons private and in classes. Prominence is given to Languages, Music, Drawing and Painting. French, German and Spanish are spoken. More than two acres afford ample grounds for outdoor exercise. Pupils are received at any time, and charged from the date of entrance. Terms begin in July and January.

Pracy's Patent Shingle Machine

Is the result of years of experience in the manufacture of various shingle machines; it embodies their good features, while it avoids their defects, besides having many valuable improvements, among which are:—

A slow feed and fast gig.

Feed operated from saw arbor and is adjustable.

Stroke adjustable while running.

Sets the bolt without knock.

Adjustable stationary pressure weight.

One man will easily cut an average of 50 to 60 shingles per minute.

Will save from 10 to 25 per cent of timber as compared with any other machine.

Are especially adapted to the Pacific Coast trade.

With each machine we furnish a jointer wheel complete, which leaves the shingles true and smooth on the edges.

FANCY SHINGLE MACHINE

For making round, oval, pointed, square, diamond, hexagon, octagon, or any fancy-shaped shingle desired.

PACKING FRAMES

For shingles are made strong, compact and simple.

We are prepared to contract for the erection of Mills or

POINTS OF EXCELLENCE.

The Wood Automatic Regulator is the only known invention that is perfect in its action for regulating the lamps better on long and short circuits.

It saves oil and commutator brushes.

The American system needs less care, and is run at much less expense than any other system.

Its apparatus occupies less space, weighs less, and requires less motive power for carrying any given number of lights than any other.

Its lights are steadier, and it requires less skill than any other to operate its apparatus.

The American system guarantees absolute safety of armatures from burning. This no other company can do, and it is this burning out of armatures in other systems that makes maintenance so expensive.

The American Company stands pledged to make good all their claims to anyone desiring an Electric Plant of any kind.

ARIZONA.

ARIZONA has for its sister States and Territories, Utah on the north, New Mexico on the east, Sonora of Old Mexico on the south, California and Nevada on the west. Its area is as much as all of the New England States put together, and two or three times as large as almost any one of the Western States.

Of all the Territories of the United States there are none that are exciting more interest than Arizona. Although it has been known for many years that her mountains are teeming with minerals, very few have had the courage to face the trials of a settlement there. Her remoteness from commercial centers, and the expense attached to the transportation of articles of use, have always been an obstacle to her development. Since the advent of the S. P. Co.'s road, and the A. & P., however, a flow of the tide of immigration has set in toward the new El Dorado. The railroads certainly are entitled to the credit of civilizing this dependency, and to their presence alone a development of her resources is attributable. The time is not far distant, we predict, when her claims to Statehood will be recognized, for very soon she will be the possessor of a population that will entitle her to admission to the Union. Already experiments have proven that the production of cereals can be most profitably engaged in, while the nutritious grasses of luxuriant growth on her grazing lands afford an argument incontrovertible as to the feasibility of stock-raising.

There is in many quarters of the Territory an abundance of fine timber, and in the manufacture of lumber to supply the heavy demand for building purposes an army of men is engaged. If a diversity of resources such as Arizona is fast becoming noted for can contribute to a rapid and permanent growth, then her near future will be crowned with that glory. Her destiny will place her in the front rank of the prosperous States.

Prescott is the capital. The laws of the Territory are similar to California. Arizona lies between latitude 31° and 37° north, and longitude 109° and 114° 40' west: 67,098,366 of its 72,906,240 acres are unsurveyed. The part lying north of the Gila was acquired by the treaty with Mexico. Arizona became a Territory in 1863, prior to which time it was part of New Mexico. It is divided into ten counties. Mountain ranges are numerous, having a northwest and southeast course. Mount San Francisco, a volcanic cone, is 11,000 feet above the level of the sea. The Colorado, a remarkable river, is the largest one in the Territory, and finds its beginning in Utah. It flows southerly along the western border, emptying its waters into the Gulf of California. It has worn its bed to such an extent that some of its banks are perpendicular walls 7,000 feet high. Steamers traverse its waters for a distance of 612 miles.

The climate of the Territory is equable, and her altitude an assurance against disease. The mines of the Territory are as yet undeveloped, though capital-seeking investment is by no means timid. Notwithstanding the mines of Arizona are generally in their infancy, more bullion has been produced in proportion to the money invested than in any other mining district except California.

Now that machinery for mills and mining can be brought into the Territory at something like a reasonable price for transportation, we expect to see some wonderful productions. Prospectors are swarming through the gulches and on the mountain-sides, locating claims, and immigration is rapidly coming in.

Travelers and tourists of the highest authority have pronounced this to be one of the richest scenic sections of the globe. With the charms of nature spread out in so many ways to make Arizona attractive, there can be no doubt that in a short time this quarter of our happy nation will be populated by her representative citizens, under whose care and nurture it must become a great source of pride and revenue. At no distant day every section of Arizona, it is presumed, will be awakened by the clanking of engines and the bustle of traffic. This wilderness will have undergone a change as if by magic; its stillness will have been broken by the joyous sounds of the church bells ringing out upon the balmy air, and the musical sounds of the mechanic will keep "time" with the progress of civilization.

FLORENCE.

PINAL COUNTY. A post and express office. A beautiful, thriving and prosperous town containing over 1,500 inhabitants, handsomely situated on the south bank of the Gila River, in Pinal County, and almost in the center of the Territory. It is the county seat of the county, and lies about 35 miles from the far-famed Silver King Mine. Recent additions have been made to the Court House, a new jail built which has no equal in the Territory excepting Yuma. A new Catholic Church will shortly be constructed. There are ten public and one private school. Every educational advantage can be had here known to the outside world. The climate, healthfulness and sanitary condition of the town is unequaled by any place in the Territory. Farming and grazing abound on all sides, and it is now a settled fact that any cereal or vegetable may be grown successfully here. Connection is made with the S. P. R. R. at the station of Casa Grande, 25 miles distant. The mail service is daily, and is carried by the Texas and California Stage Company. Casa Grande is its nearest banking town.

NOCALES.

PIMA COUNTY. Nogales (Walnuts) is situated on the United States and Mexican line. While apparently there is but one town, there are in reality two, that portion lying north of the "line," belonging to the United States, and the portion south of it, to Mexico. Nogales is the southern terminus of the New Mexico and Arizona Railroad (a branch of the A. T. & S. F.) and the northern terminus of the Sonora (Mexico) Central Railroad. Although not yet five years old, its claim to being the most enterprising town in Arizona is indisputable: for what was a barren, uninhabited spot as late as the spring of 1883, is now one of the most thriving towns in Arizona. It lies between the Guababi Mountains on the east and the Pajaritas on the west. Owing to its altitude—4,200 feet above the sea level—and the purity of its air and water, it has no rival as a health resort. Its climate is simply perfect, the thermometer seldom reaching the freezing-point in winter, or an uncomfortable degree of heat in summer. As a home for consumptives, or persons troubled with lung, bronchial, kidney, or other diseases, it is incomparable. Mining, stock-raising and its being the supply point for southwestern Arizona and Sonora (Mexico) are the principal interests which support it; while a large proportion of the agricultural products of the above-mentioned districts are also handled here. Its being a transfer depot between the two countries also adds to its wealth and importance. Nogales is the center of one of the richest mining districts on the Pacific Coast, gold, silver, copper, lead, iron, etc., being found in every direction. Although Nogales is literally a "frontier town," yet for peace, quietness and obedience to the laws, it will compare favorably with any town on the Pacific slope, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Nogales has three large hotels, one of them being the finest in Arizona, four newspapers, three churches, three schools, large smelting works, etc., etc. Present population of the two towns about 2,600. Nogales is about 67 miles from Tucson, 85 miles from Benson, 65 miles from Magdalena, 17 miles from Plachas de Plata, 26 miles from Promontorio, and 50 miles from Saric. It is the southwestern gateway to Mexico, the El Paso of the West.

PHOENIX.

MARICOPA COUNTY. Queen of the fertile realm which surrounds her on every side, Phoenix sits on her emerald throne, adorned with a wealth of fruits and flowers, of shady groves and sparkling streams. There are few towns in the West with superior attractions or greater natural advantages. Embowered in a forest of fruit and shade trees, with beautiful gardens and orchards, Phoenix has been well named the "Garden City." Through its wide, smooth thoroughfares streams of water flow, and the rows of handsome trees which line either side give the place a most charming appearance. At a distance the buildings are entirely concealed by their leafy surroundings, and one scarcely realizes he is in the town until he notes the active traffic and the crowds of people on the main street. This avenue shows on either side, for several blocks, large and handsome structures of brick and wood. It is a mile in length—not including two additions of half a mile each—and is as level as a table its entire extent. Many of its mercantile establishments carry stocks of goods not exceeded outside of San Francisco, and several of the brick edifices lately erected would be an ornament to metropolitan centers.

The present population of Phoenix is about 7,000, which is being daily augmented by additions from the East and West. The town's situation is on the north side of Salt River, a mile from that stream, and almost in the center of the valley. Its streets face the cardinal points, and through all of them two streams of water are conducted. There are two public squares, or plazas, in one of which stands the county court house, a commodious two-story brick structure crowned by a tower. In the other square the foundations for a city hall will soon be laid. It is to be of brick and stone, two stories in height, and will be an ornament to a young city. The public school-house is two stories in height, substantially built, and surrounded by a mass of shade trees which almost hide it from view.

The city has perfect postal, express, telegraph and banking facilities, good hotel accommodation and supports four newspapers, three daily and weekly: The Arizona Gazette, edited by Mr. John O. Dunbar; the Arizonian, edited by Mr. Ch. Mosher, and the Phoenix Daily Herald, edited and owned by Mr. N. A. Morford, and one weekly paper, the Advance, edited by Mr. J. R. Burt.

On the 6th of July last, a branch road from the Southern Pacific at Maricopa Station was completed to Phoenix. It is thirty-five miles in length, and passes through the town of Tempe, where a station was established. The opening of this road connects the valley with the outer world and opens markets, east and west, for its products. There is also a street railroad now in operation running from First Street east to Collins' Addition.

Having had placed in our hands some of the most desirable property, both improved and unimproved, located in this the "Salt River Valley," suitable to all classes of agriculturists, either small grain, fruit or vine, so subdivided and at such low figures, that men of limited means, equally as well as the wealthy, can procure comfortable, profitable and happy homes in a climate where the sun shines perpetually the twelve months; where sickness or ill health is a stranger to him who lives within moderate bounds; where the apricot, the peach, the pear, fig, plum, prune, grape and all berries grow to perfection; and mark you,

THREE WEEKS TO ONE MONTH

Earlier than the same fruit can be produced in the most favored portions of Southern California, and with railroad facilities now completed, can be shipped to Eastern markets at very remunerative prices.

Phoenix is the county seat of Maricopa County, being the commercial center of a valley twenty-five miles in width by eighty miles in length, and will ere long outrival Los Angeles or San Diego. The eye of the capitalist as well as him of limited means, has turned this way. Our hotels are being crowded to their fullest capacity with people seeking investments, and our city daily improving to keep pace with the growth of the surrounding valley.

Do not fail to correspond with us for all information wanted, as we will cheerfully and honestly answer all queries, no matter whether pertaining to our special line or not, or if you desire to make a personal examination of this valley call upon us and we will see that you are fairly treated and honestly dealt with.

We can honestly say that there is no country in the world that can furnish as much broad and beautiful land (and alluvial soil), and as much water, conducted by long winding canals, that will flow on every acre of land under them, as the Salt River Valley of Maricopa County.

There can be raised on the same land—really two crops per year, to say nothing of our broad expanse of alfalfa lands which can be harvested five times per year, with an average production of two tons per acre at each cutting.

Should you feel inclined to change your home for a summer clime, do not fail to call upon us, as we feel assured that with the advantages which we can present to you you will undoubtedly invest and remain with us and assist in beautifying and singing the praises of this, one of the many garden spots of the Pacific Coast.

The productions of the Salt River Valley embrace every variety of cereal, grass, fruit, flower, tree, shrub and vegetable which grows from the parallels to the equator. Of cereals and grasses there is raised: Wheat, rye, clover, barley, buckwheat, millet, oats, alfalfa, timothy, corn, Bermuda and blue grass.

The following textile plants: Cotton, hemp, flax, jute, ramie. Tobacco and sugar-cane have been grown here, the former having a strong and pungent odor, while the latter product is equal to the best Louisiana.

Salt River Valley is the home of fruit of every variety. Here is a partial list of those produced: Oranges, figs, grapes, walnuts, lemons, bananas, pears, almonds, limes, quinces, plums, peanuts, pomegranates, peaches, nectarines, pecan nuts, olives, apricots, apples, strawberries, and all the small fruits.

In the Salt River Valley eight main canals have been constructed to bring the water from the river upon the cultivated area. The united length of these waterways is about 160 miles, and their total cost nearly $1,000,000, while other canals are being contemplated.

Phoenix is the natural center of traffic for an extensive region, and its trade is rapidly growing.
